

Font-size:

Print:

and May Attack Syria Even If He Loses the Vote in Congress

US State Terror Targets Syria: Air Power, Na...

US on Brink of Launching War against Syria based on Lies

By Bill Van Auken

Global Research, September 01, 2013
World Socialist Web Site

Region: Middle East & North Africa

Theme: US NATO War Agenda

In-depth Report: SYRIA: NATO'S NEXT WAR?

Latest News / Top Stories

Obama Will Launch a Huge Propaganda Blitz — and May Attack Syria Even If He Loses the Vote in Congress

US State Terror Targets Syria: Air Power, Navy Deployed

Keeping Deposits Safe, Local, and Working for Local Economies...with Public Banks

New Snowden Revelation details vast US Intelligence "Black Budget"

US on Brink of Launching War against Syria based on Lies

Did the White House Help Plan the Syrian Chemical Attack?

Cooked Up Evidence. Trying to Fool the Public over Syria

All Articles

NEWS

MOST POPULAR

GEOGRAPHIC REGIONS

THEMES

I-BOOKS SERIES

IN-DEPTH REPORTS

THE GLOBAL RESEARCH NEWS HOUR

Global Research Newsletter:

enter your email

Like 31

President Barack Obama and Secretary of State John Kerry laid out a case for war against Syria Friday that represented a compendium of bald-faced lies and rank hypocrisy. Their statements made clear that Washington is on the brink of launching yet another unilateral war of military aggression in violation of international law, and in direct opposition to the sentiments of both the people of the Middle East and the American public.

While both Obama and Kerry indicated that no decision has yet been taken in relation to military action against Syria, this, like everything else put out by the administration, is patently false. The US Navy has positioned a fifth warship in the Mediterranean, while Air Force units are being beefed up at the US base in Qatar for a military assault that is planned and imminent. A possible target date is September 5, with a New Moon—the same conditions chosen for launching “shock and awe” against Iraq more than a decade ago.

The entire operation is being prepared in contempt of international law, democratic processes and American public opinion. This was made abundantly clear in the presentation Kerry delivered from the State Department Friday afternoon.

He was followed shortly afterward by a perfunctory statement from Obama during a taped photo-op with three Baltic heads of state. The occasion only underscored the lack of international support for the coming US aggression, particularly in the wake of the British parliament's stunning vote to reject participation in a new war.

Obama's statement was aimed at assuring the American public that any US assault on Syria would be a “limited, narrow act” with no “boots on the ground” or “open-ended commitment.” Kerry made similar promises that the Syrian intervention “will bear no resemblance to Afghanistan, Iraq or even Libya.”

There is no reason to lend any credibility to these claims either. The Washington Post Friday carried a front-page story based on interviews with US military personnel, calling the action “very dangerous” and warning that the US could not simply fire a few cruise missiles into Damascus and walk away.

Former US Central Command chief General James Mattis was quoted as warning: “If Americans take ownership of this, this is going to be a full-throated, very, very serious war.”

The article also cited Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman Gen. Martin Dempsey's warning to Congress that “Once we take action, we should be prepared for what comes next. Deeper involvement is hard to avoid.”

In his televised statement, Kerry portrayed the administration as “consulting” with Congress and discussing the impending military action “directly with the American people.” With the majority of the American people opposed to any military intervention and, according to the latest polls, fully 80 percent opposed to attacking Syria without a vote by Congress authorizing military action, such claims are not only false, but insulting.

As evidence of the supposed forthrightness of the Obama administration with the public, Kerry cited the release of an “unclassified estimate” produced by US intelligence on the alleged August 21 chemical weapons attack outside Damascus—the pretext chosen by Washington to justify its war.

“I'm not asking you to take my word for it,” said Kerry. “Read for yourself, everyone, those listening, all of you, read for yourselves the evidence from thousands of sources.”

However, anyone who reads this report, which surfaced on the Internet shortly after Kerry's speech, will find not one shred of probative evidence. The document, barely three pages long,

Become a Member of Global Research –
Receive Free Books!

“Artworks for Peace”: Support Global Research

Subscribe to Global Research's RSS
Feed

Donate to Global Research

Advanced Search

Index by Countries

Index by Author

Join us on Facebook

Global Research (Centre for Research on Globalization)

Like 23,548

Twitter: crg_crm

It is worth reiterating that without the vast amount of military, financial, and diplomatic largesse the west and... <http://t.co/RdPEzNoCQE> 10:13:05 PM August 29, 2013 from Facebook

Follow @crg_crm 314 followers

Global Research Publishers

Towards a World War III Scenario
by Michel Chossudovsky

Buy Now!

America's "War on Terrorism"
by Michel Chossudovsky

Buy Now!

Globalization of Poverty and the New World Order
by Michel Chossudovsky

Buy Now!

Seeds of Destruction: Hidden Agenda of Genetic Manipulation
by F. William Engdahl

Buy Now!

The Global Economic Crisis
by M. Chossudovsky and A. G. Marshall

Buy Now!

Visit our online store

Partner Websites

Project Censored

Stop NATO

includes a series of unsubstantiated assertions that are tailored to the US policy aim of manufacturing a pretext for direct intervention in a US-provoked civil war aimed at toppling the Syrian regime of Bashar al-Assad.

It is precisely the “word” of Kerry, who is as phony as his Botox face, and that of the CIA officialdom that the American people are being told to take as good coin.

The document consists of a series of assertions that begin with the words, “The United States government assesses with high confidence” and then indict the Syrian government for the alleged August 21 attack.

It makes unsupported claims about the Syrian government carrying out previous chemical weapons attacks, deploying chemical weapons personnel in advance of the attack, and discussing the attack afterwards, all without giving one piece of verifiable evidence.

It cites an unspecified “body of evidence, including past Syrian practice” to claim that the Assad regime was “witting of and directed the attack.”

It claims that the launching of the attack by the Western-backed rebels, a collection of fascistic, Al Qaeda-affiliated militias, was “highly unlikely.” This, despite the fact that the Assad regime had everything to lose from such an attack, launched on the very day that UN weapons inspectors began their work in Damascus. On the other hand, “rebels,” facing a string of military defeats and desperate for direct US military intervention on their behalf, had everything to gain.

It goes on to state, “We assess that the opposition has not used chemical weapons,” a statement that flies in the face of the boasting by Al Qaeda elements that they had such weapons and the conclusions of Carla del Ponte, a leading member of the UN commission of inquiry on Syria, who stated last May that the bulk of the evidence indicated chemical weapons use by the rebels.

“Our intelligence sources in Damascus did not detect any indications in the days prior to the attack that opposition affiliates were planning to use chemical weapons,” the report claims.

In summing up its findings, the report admits that its “assessment” falls “short of confirmation,” while promising, “We will continue to seek additional information to close gaps in our understanding of what took place.”

In other words, Washington is launching a war based on unconfirmed allegations and speculation that it has fashioned into a pretext for military aggression. Moreover, it has no interest in confirming its trumped-up charges, dismissing the investigation on the ground in Syria by UN weapons inspectors as “irrelevant,” even as they began interviewing Syrian soldiers suffering the effects of “rebel” gas attacks.

If one seriously examines the language of this report, it is clearly a crooked lawyer’s brief. The words are carefully chosen. “The United States government assesses with high confidence” that the Assad regime was responsible for the attack—in other words, we are not sure.

It is “highly unlikely” that the Al Qaeda-led rebels carried out. Or “it’s possible.” And US intelligence assets “did not detect any indications” that the US-backed opposition forces were planning a gas attack. In other words, if you kept digging, they could be there.

One could not convict an individual of a third-rate burglary on the basis of such evidence in a US court of law, where the standard is proof beyond a reasonable doubt. Yet the United States government is proposing to use it as the justification for launching a bombardment on Damascus in which thousands will lose their lives.

Not one word of this is to be believed. If one really wanted to know what happened on that day, it would require the interrogation of the CIA, Mossad and Qatari and Saudi intelligence agents who are arming and directing the murderous operations of the anti-Assad forces and undoubtedly played the leading role in organizing the chemical weapons provocation to lay the groundwork for US military action.

Kerry’s remarks Friday only underscored that a principal qualification for the office of US Secretary of State is being a skilled liar and forger. With his aristocratic manners, Kerry reminds one of no one so much as Hitler’s foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, and the objective content of his speech consisted of a global arrogance and criminality that goes beyond that of the German Nazi regime.

One can dispense with all of Kerry’s rhetoric about the “indiscriminate, inconceivable horror of chemical weapons” and about Washington’s supposed unique mission of upholding “universal values” and “fundamental principles of the international community.”

Who is he kidding? US imperialism has the least right to preach morality in the Middle East or anywhere else on the planet. Over the past decade of war it directly killed tens of thousands Iraqis, including through the use of depleted uranium munitions and white phosphorus shells, while creating the catastrophic conditions that claimed the lives of hundreds of thousands more.

What were napalm and Agent Orange, massively deployed during the war in Vietnam that claimed over 3 million lives, if not chemical weapons? And it is US imperialism alone that has employed the most horrific of weapons, the atomic bomb, killing nearly a quarter of a million Japanese civilians in Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Every war it has waged over the past period has been based on lies, from the fabricated Gulf of Tonkin incident in Vietnam to the nonexistent weapons of mass destruction in Iraq. The impending war on Syria is no exception.

The claim that Washington is only carrying out a “limited” and “tailored” action is false on its face, as the CIA and the Pentagon have been involved over the past two years in fomenting a sectarian civil war and arming the Al Qaeda gangs that are tearing Syria apart. If the Obama administration were truly interested in stopping the bloodshed than it would get the hell out of Syria and stop interfering in its affairs.

It intends to do no such thing, of course. The coming attack threatens the lives of thousands of Syrians. Significantly, Kerry described Syria’s President Bashar al-Assad as a “thug and a murderer,” echoing the language used to describe Iraq’s Saddam Hussein and Libya’s Muammar Gaddafi. As in their cases, US aims clearly include toppling his regime and murdering him and his family.

Stripping away the lies and demagogy, Kerry’s speech outlined a US doctrine of naked aggression. US national security interests were at stake in Syria, the Secretary of State affirmed, because Assad could not be allowed to defy American dictates. If he got away with it, other countries would “believe that they can do as they will.” Implicit in this warning is that the attack on Syria represents only the antechamber of a far wider war that can engulf Iran, Russia, China and the entire planet.

Like 31 2

Articles by:
Bill Van Auken

Related content:

Lies and Fabrications to Justify War: UN Admits It Didn’t Ask for Access in Syria Until Saturday
John Kerry stated yesterday: “I spoke on Thursday with Syrian Foreign Minister Muallim and I made it very clear to him that if the regime, as he argued, had nothing to hide, then their response should be immediate — immediate...”

VIDEO: Syria: Another “Humanitarian War” Based on Lies & Deceit
The Paris-based Centre for the Study of Interventionism (CSI) and Julien Teil, director of “Lies behind the “Humanitarian War” in Libya: There is no evidence!” has recently released a short documentary exposing how a cartel of Western nations and their...

Who brought Syria to the Brink of Civil War?
UN Under-Secretary- General for Peacekeeping Operations Herve Ladsous claimed Tuesday that Syria is now in “a full-scale civil war.” It is the first time the UN has made such a grave assessment of the country’s situation. Civil war is usually...

Britain’s Daily Mail: U.S. ‘backed plan to launch chemical weapon attack on Syria’
Archives.org has published the record of the controversial Daily Mail article pertaining to an alleged US sponsored intelligence operation to launch a chemical weapons attack on Syria and blame it on President Bashar al-Assad. The original article <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-2270219/U-S-planned-launch-chemical-weapon-attack-Syria-blame-Assad.html> has been...

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Center of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post original Global Research articles on community internet sites as long as the text & title are not modified. The source and the author’s copyright must be displayed. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of “fair use” in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than “fair use” you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca
Copyright © Bill Van Auken, World Socialist Web Site, 2013

English Français
Español Italiano
Deutsch Português
srpski العربية

Themes
US NATO War Agenda
Global Economy
Crimes against Humanity
Militarization and WMD
Oil and Energy
Police State & Civil Rights

Geographic Regions
USA
Canada
Middle East & North Africa

